

New camper for adventures for two

Von Michael Kirchberger

The off-road boom in motorhomes continues. Eura Mobil presents the X-Tura, an almost seven-meter-long, semi-integrated camper for two people based on the Mercedes-Benz Sprinter 4x4. A powerful electrical system with solar modules and a 300 Ah lithium battery is designed to guarantee up to 30 days of independence from shore power. The fully equipped adventure camper costs 178,850 euros, the basic version 145,000 euros. (aum)
